STORY TO READ ALOUD

Hopp the Grasshopper & the Bees

It's springtime, and on Hopp the grasshopper's little meadow, all the flowers are beginning to bloom and shine. Hopp loves the peace and quiet of hopping across the meadow and is fascinated by the variety of his beautiful, colorful flowers. The sight of the flowers fills him with great joy.

One day, a group of bees settled in the garden. They buzzed and hummed from flower to flower. Hopp the grasshopper was very disturbed by the buzzing and humming and was not at all pleased with his new neighbors. Finally, he mustered up the courage to ask what the bees were doing there and why they were buzzing around so much.

The bees explained to Hopp the grasshopper that they had to fly around so much to find the most beautiful flowers for making honey and to pollinate other flowers. Hopp learned that only through the pollination of the bees was his beautiful flower meadow brought back to life each year, because without bees there would be no honey, and no plants or flowers either. This fascinated Hopp and filled him with awe. He loved his flowers so much. So he began to help the bees. He hopped happily across the meadow, showing the bees new, beautiful flowers so they could find them more easily.

The bees were very grateful for Hopp's help, even if it wasn't as efficient as their own. However, the cooperation helped the bees produce even more honey than before. The garden was filled with the sweet scent of honey and beautiful flowers again the following year. Everyone lived together peacefully and was happy and content.

The moral of the story is that cooperation and mutual help lead to great success and happiness!

Tutti Frutti Cocktail Screens

Tutti Frutti cocktail umbrellas are the perfect craft project. Whether you use watermelon, lemon, orange and kiwi or exotic fruits like dragon fruit, passion fruit and papaya!

1. The starting point for all Tutti Frutti children's cocktail umbrellas is a circle approximately 16 cm in diameter, which is folded in half eight times. After folding, alternately pressing the small triangles inwards and outwards creates an umbrella shape.

2. You can create all sorts of different fruits! For a watermelon, for example, cut out a slightly smaller circle. Then stick black adhesive dots on it and fold this paper circle in half 8 times.

3. Next, place both pieces on top of each other and pierce the tip with a needle. Skewer a cotton ball onto a wooden skewer, followed by the paper umbrella. A bead forms the umbrella's point.

4. Ideally, all the parts should now be firmly attached to the stick. If not, a drop of glue will help to fix them in place. The excess piece of wooden skewer can be cut off.

You need:

Construction paper or colored printer paper 80-120 g, small adhesive dots ø 8 mm, wooden skewers, cotton balls ø approx. 10 mm, ironing beads, if necessary.

Compass and scissors, glue
